

Environment Initiatives of National Police Academy

The National Police Academy initiated the plantation programme in the premise itself as a part of environment friendly policing. The Academy is also starting the culture of planting the trees during the inauguration of trainings that are conducted here.

During the inauguration of "Senior Officer (Technical) Basic Training", Acting Executive Director of National Police Academy, Deputy Inspector General of Police Mr Devendra Subedi, all the senior officers along with the trainees planted the total number of 150 plants.

The principal of Detective Training School, Deputy Inspector General of Police Mr Kedarman Singh Bhandari also planted the pine tree which he brought from his own garden to motivate others about the importance of environment friendly policing cum culture.

These kind of eco-friendly activities not only give a positive message to the society but also helps in the sustainable development as a whole.
