PRERANA

An Inspiration for Excellence

National Police Academy

Annual Publication, February, 2022

Felicitations

National Police Academy, since its inception, has played an instrumental role in developing professional police personnel to meet with increasing law enforcement challenges and transforming Nepal Police into a credible organization dedicated to maintaining peace and order, and controlling and investigating crimes. In today's changed context, National Police Academy continues to remain at the core of police training and capacity building, which are integral to the human resource development of Nepal Police.

The 66th Anniversary of the National Police Academy and the publication of the annual magazine 'PRERANA' to commemorate this historical landmark is a matter of great delight to the entire police fraternity. The importance of the academy in the realm of instilling knowledge, skills, attitude, and desire among the newly inducted members, as well as serving police personnel, of our organization to construct their professional insight, competence and capacity is not only crucial but has grown over time. Furthermore, the Academy also needs to step up in its pursuit of 'Center for Excellence' and fulfill training needs assessment, design professional courses, and ensure training standards through periodic training audits.

I would like to acknowledge the relentless efforts of NPA and its family in the training and capacity enhancement of Nepal Police personnel despite the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic. I hope that the publication shall serve as a historical document showcasing the Academy's progress and various activities that were accomplished in 2021/2022.

On the occasion of the 66th Anniversary of the National Police Academy, I would like to extend my best wish to the NPA family – present and past – and express my appreciation for the job accomplished.

4 February 2021

Shailesh Thapa Kshetri
Inspector General of Police
Nepal Police

From the Desk of

Executive Director

It gives me an immense pleasure to inform you that the National Police Academy is bringing out its annual souvenir 'Prerana' to ensure the continuity of its annual publication. On this historic occasion, I would like to applaud all our predecessors for their remarkable contributions in developing and strengthening this noble institution.

National Police Academy, being a premier training institution of Nepal Police, is entrusted with the responsibility of capacity building of its officers – both the new entrants and the in-service police officers. Besides the capacity building of personnel, the NPA is also responsible for formulating training policies, setting training benchmarks and supervising and quality assurance of the provincial training institutions and other specialized training centers.

The year 2020/21 has been a challenging yet effective year in view of the training activities and the achievements realized. We were presented with immense challenges brought about by the COVID pandemic. Conducting training programs - adapting with and navigating through these unprecedented difficulties - was not that easy. Taking the opportunities offered to us by new technologies, the NPA embraced more resilient and innovative teaching-learning practices including the virtual training capability. We succeeded in developing virtual classroom and conducted basic training as well as a number of in-service training courses utilizing the virtual platform. It proved invaluable for mitigating the adverse impacts of pandemic on training activities. Similarly, we were also able to accomplish an important milestone in the systematic development of training programs through training manual development for the basic training programs of Police Constable, Assistant Sub-Inspector and Police Inspector. The achievements realized in the midst of the crisis are not of a routine nature and therefore, I would like to commend the hard-work of all the officers who were involved in this painstaking endeavor for their historic contributions.

Finally, I would like to congratulate and thank all officers involved in the publication for their hard-work and meticulous efforts to bring 'Prerana' to this shape. I wish for the wider readership and greater feat for the publication.

Executive Director
Niraj Bahadur Shahi
Additional Inspector General of Police

Editorial

We are pleased to announce the publication of 25th edition of Prerana and we would like to welcome you all on this latest edition.

Prerana is the major publication of National Police Academy, published annually on the glorious occasion of NPA Day. It has covered all activities of the National Police Academy conducted throughout the year. Like always, the focus has been laid on reader-friendly presentation of the activities, statistics and facts through pictorial and info-graphic demonstration.

In this edition, we have given emphasis on showcasing the historical account of contribution made by the Academy in developing Nepal Police human resources. National Police Academy is at the forefront of capacity building of Police officers. It also undertakes the responsibility of supervision, quality assurance and coordination of all police training centers from across the country. Taking this fact into consideration, Prerana has accorded special weightage to it, portraying the training activities of Provincial Training Centers and other specialized training centers of Nepal Police.

Grooming and transfiguring young talents into dedicated, skilled and accomplished police officers with uncompromising integrity lies at the core of the National Police Academy. All efforts of the Academy are, therefore, devoted to strengthening the training activities of the Police Inspector Basic Training. This is why, the basic training activities hold a center-stage on this edition of Prerana.

The National Police Academy has responded to the difficulties posed by COVID-19 by adapting new technology and tools in the training activities. The e-learning system developed to cope with the pernicious impacts of the pandemic on police capacity building is certainly going to transform the police training system making it resilient enough to deal with the unforeseen challenges. The virtualization of police training, therefore, has been rendered a special place in the present edition. Similarly, a brief account of training manual development for all three layers of basic training courses has also been a highlight in the magazine.

We have made our sincere efforts to acknowledge and express our gratitude for the invaluable contributions made by our retiring officers to the institution and the country. Prerana dedicates an important space to recognize their selfless sacrifices in uniform. Besides, mobile training activities, sports activities and achievements among others have been presented.

Finally, the editorial team wishes to express our thanks to everyone whom we heavily relied on to bring this magazine to this shape. The photographers from the Academy deserve special appreciation for their year-round dedication to provide us with their repository of quality photographs.

We appreciate your invaluable critique and feedback for improving the magazine in coming editions.

Thank you

National Police Academy

Centre for Excellence

National Police Academy (NPA), formerly known as Central Police Training Center (CPTC), is the apex police training institution in Nepal since its inception in 1956 A.D.

CPTC initially started functioning by delivering training to Police Constables. NPA was gradually developed as prominent training institution after the establishment of Training Centres at regional level. It now mainly focuses on capacity building of police officers and elevating overall training approaches of Nepal Police. NPA provides strategic suggestions and recommendations to Police Headquarters as well as supervises other training centres for ensuring uniformity and quality in police training programs all over the country.

The team of NPA toils eternally concerning to produce competent and professional law enforcers so as to fulfill demand and overcome challenges of contemporary society pertaining to uphold the rule of law and security of the citizenry. NPA also coordinates with national as well as international training institutions to advance in sync with the international standards and practices. Persistently, NPA is always fervent to upgrade all training institutions, all over the country, by extending academic and technical assistance in the field of training enabling them to produce equipped police professionals for living up to the expectations of people in modern democratic societies.

Motto

Wisdom, Duty and Excellence

Vision

To be a 'Center for Excellence' in the field of police training in the country and abroad.

Mission

To train and develop law enforcement human resource capable of serving people with the highest standards of professionalism and integrity.

Objectives

The NPA is the apex police training entity in the wider landscape of police training facilities in the country. Its goal is to develop qualified human resources capable of discharging their duties with elan to achieve organizational and individual objectives with a strong sense of commitment and responsibility to serve the people. The main objectives of NPA are:

- To conduct foundation training courses targeting the senior police officers and technical police officers.
- To develop qualified police instructors necessary for the police training environment and provide consultancy services.
- To offer and undertake advanced training courses for senior police officers in the sphere of crime investigations, leadership, management and administration, community policing, etc.
- To set and maintain training benchmark for all police training institutions across the country.
- To extend prospective and substantive relationship with universities in the relevant subjects and to award academic degrees to the trainees.
- To organize workshops, seminars, symposiums, conferences and short courses in policing issues.
- To assist Police Headquarters in the formulation of training policies and annual training calendar.
- To carry out relevant research activities in matters pertaining to policing and develop institutional analytical capability.

Indelible Impressions

Glorious History

The foundation of Central Police Training Centre (CPTC) was laid in 1954 A.D. It was located in Shree Mahal, Lalitpur. It had its distinct identity as an only institution devoted to train the police force. During its inception years, the CPTC had remained engaged in Police Constable training despite its limited resources and training facilities.

Relentless Perseverance

Cheerful Present

Relocated to the center of Kathmandu city in Maharajgunj in 1957, CPTC was upgraded to National Police Academy (NPA) in 1993. Since then the changing trend of policing as per the changed political context has demanded well versed and qualified police officers to meet public expectations and the NPA has always delivered results. The introduction of improved administrative practices focuses on strengthening training capability and its training to bring about improvement in administrative, investigative, and overall improvement on police professionalism.

Earnest Endeavours

Promising Future

NPA is planning to construct the state-of-the-art and technically sophisticated academic complex in Panauti of Kavrepalanchok district of Nepal. The proposed site is situated in a pleasant and scenic position on the bank of Punyamati Stream which suits the training activities. This complex is expected to cater all the facilities and amenities that a police academy of twenty-first century entails.

Superintendence

Responsible Guardianship

National Police Academy is responsible for ensuring the quality and uniformity in police training activities in all training centers. It plays a vital role in enhancing the capacity of Provincial Police Training Centers and other police training institutions. NPA is also responsible for implementation of training policies and programs, production of skilled trainers and deployment to other training institutes, monitoring and evaluating the training activities and providing other assistance as required.

Door Step Delivery

Mobile Training

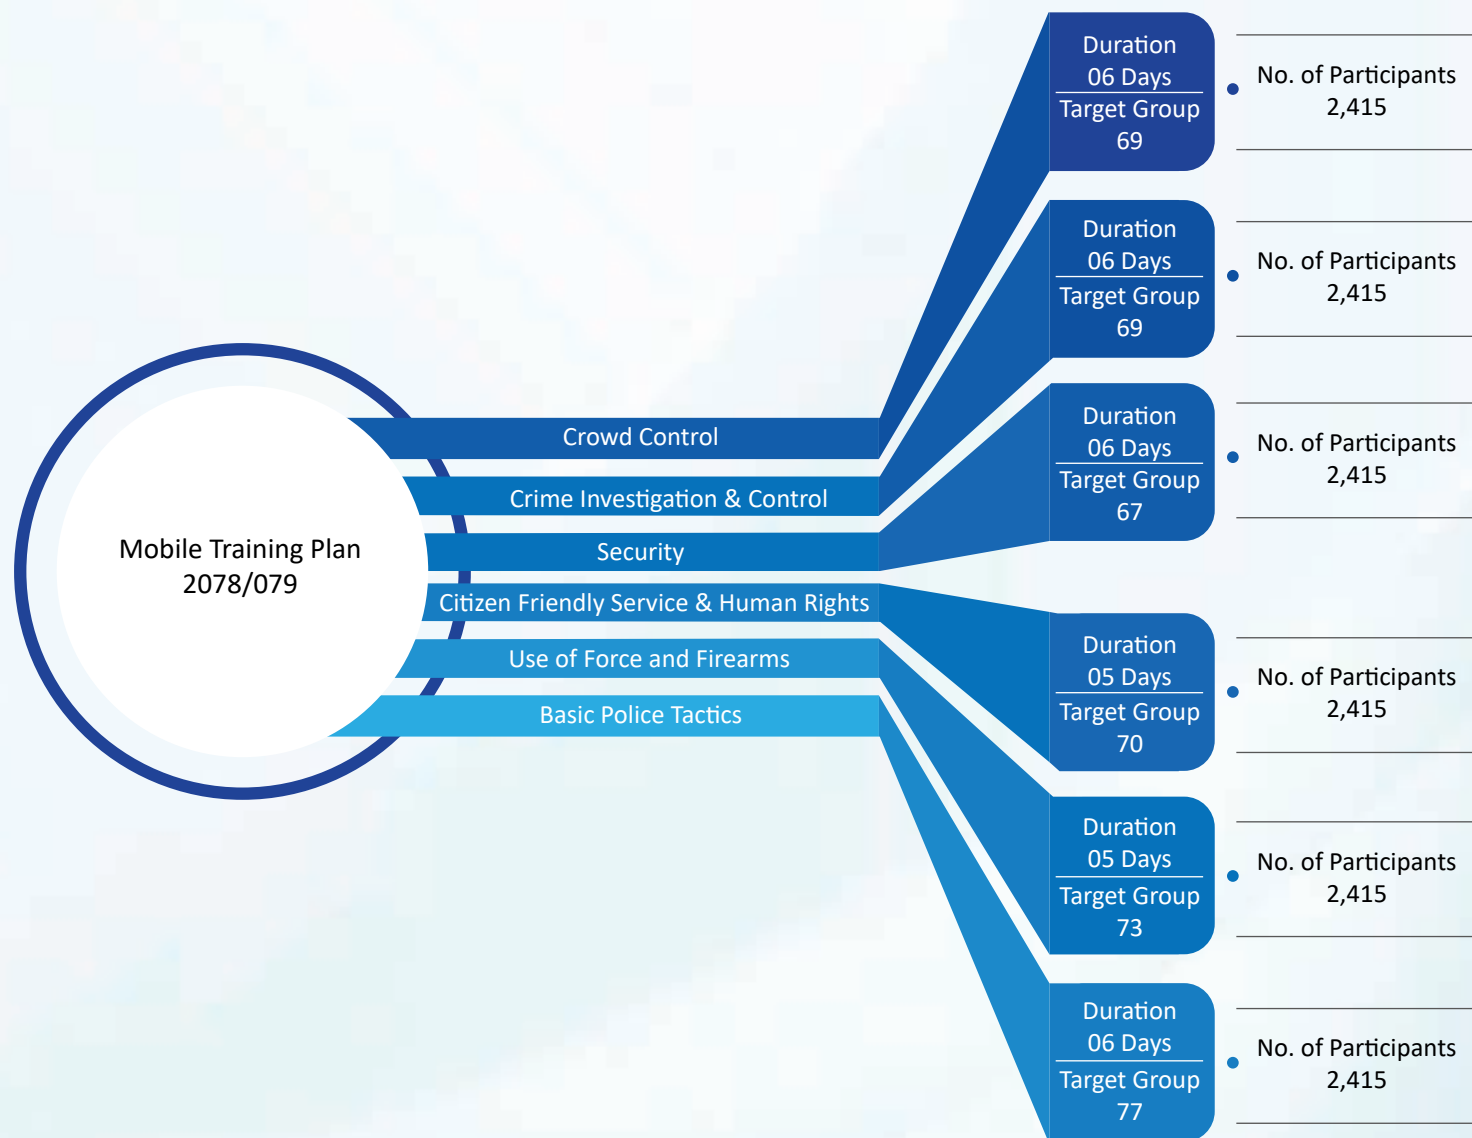

The concept of Mobile Training targeted for Head Constable and Constable of Nepal Police was implemented from fiscal year 2073 B.S. This training program was a part of ShiFT Strategic Direction, 2073 B.S. Large number of Head Constable and Police Constable have been benefited from this training. Under this training program, there are six subject areas viz. crowd control, crime investigation and control, security, citizen friendly police service and human rights, principal on the use of force and firearms, and basic police tactics.

Virtualization

Need of the Hour

NPA prioritises modernization and standardisation of its training activities. The outbreak of COVID-19 in Nepal and its sustained presence forced the NPA to suspend its training activities for more than six months. The outburst of the COVID pandemic resulted in the cancellation and suspension of the training activities planned to be conducted in the NPA. It adversely affected in the implementation of the training calendar.

In this backdrop, with the financial assistance of the United Nations Office for Project Services, the virtual training capability of the National Police Academy was strengthened by establishing a virtual training classroom and conducting two batches of Gender Responsive Investigation and Communication Skills (GRICS) using the platform.

The virtual training capacity has also helped the NPA to embrace the avenues offered by modern technologies in the capacity building of its personnel in an easy, effective and economic way.

Setting Benchmarks

Training Manual Development

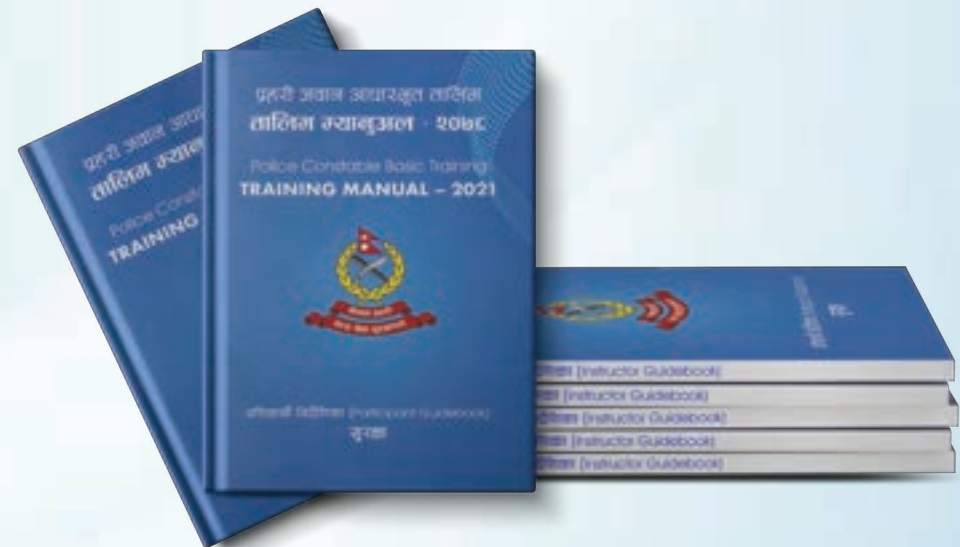

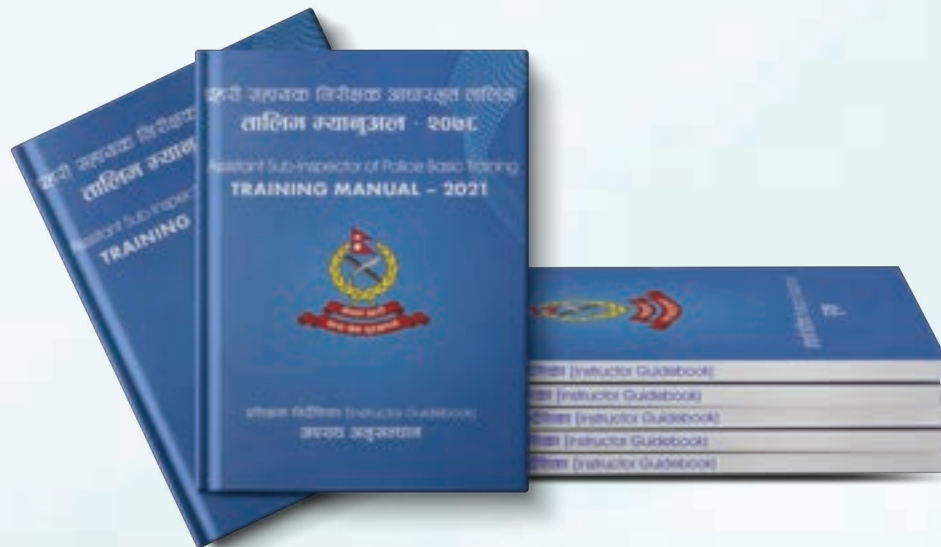

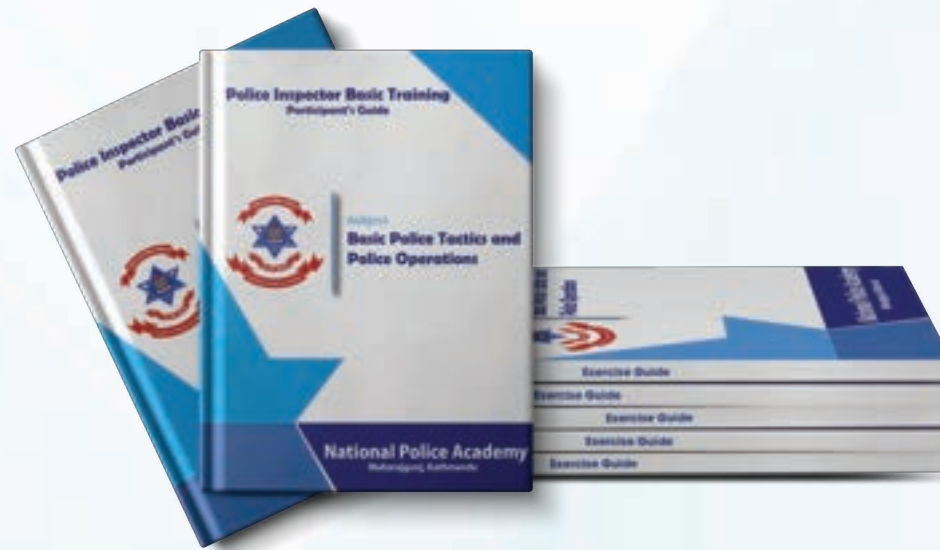

In the pursuit of strengthening the foundational training programs of Nepal Police, the National Police Academy, with the support of the United Nations Office for Project Services, has developed training manuals for the basic training of Police Constable, Assistant Sub-Inspector and Inspector of Police. The availability of standardised training materials in the form of training manuals is expected to make durable positive impact on the quality and uniformity of basic training programs in all training centers across the country.

The training manuals include Instructor Guidebook and Participant Guidebook for each subject. For the Basic Training program of Police Constable, Participant Guidebook and Instructor Guidebook have been developed on six subjects viz. Police Operations and Crime Control, Crime Investigation and Existing Laws, Security, Police Tactics and Operations, Introduction to Nepal and Nepal Police and a booklet on miscellaneous police activities.

For the ASI Basic Training, Participant Guidebook and Instructor Guidebook have been developed on five subjects viz. Police Organization and Law, Police Operations and Public Order, Crime Investigation, Police Management, and Police Tactics and Operations.

For Inspector Basic Program, the training manuals have been developed on eleven subjects. Participant Guidebook and Presentation Slides have been developed on the subjects viz. General Police Administration, Laws Relating to Police, Jurisprudence and Criminal Law, Forensic Science and Medicine, Management and Leadership, Public Peace and Order, Security, Information Technology, Crime Prevention Management, Crime Investigation, and Basic Police Tactics and Operation. For the Inspector Basic Program, the training manuals also include Exercise Guide for subjects having practical sessions.

Bedrock for Excellence

NPA Facilities

Training facilities are the pre-requisites for quality and sustainable learning. NPA offers various training facilities that enable effective training delivery for indoor and outdoor activities. Mr. Samir Chandra Kharel, born on December 14, 1974 from father Kumar Prasad Kharel and mother Lalita Devi Kharel, had joined Nepal Police on 11 September, 1994. He got infected by Covid-19 during the first wave of infection as he was discharging official responsibilities. Unfortunately, he breathed his last on 24 May, 2021 while undergoing treatment in Nepal Police Hospital.

Having joined Nepal Police as Assistant Sub-Inspector of Police and eventually elevated as the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Mr. Kharel was an industrious, competent and professional police officer. He offered significant period of his service in training and development activities in the National Police Academy. He was an acclaimed trainer. Most importantly, he was highly regarded across the institution as a sincere, humble and caring human being. Mr. Kharel had also served in various field units as a commander and during all those assignments, he had always proved himself as a professional and diligent police officer. He had also served in United Nations Mission in Darfur (UNAMID) in 2007 and African Union - United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur in 2021.

Mr. Kharel is survived by his wife, a son and a daughter. The National Police Academy mourns the irreparable loss resulted from his unprecedented demise.

Late DSP Samir Chandra Kharel (1974 - 2021)
